

REFUND POLICY

1. Refund Eligibility

Customers may request a refund for eligible products within 30 days of delivery.

A product is eligible for a refund when:

- The product is unused or in acceptable condition.
- The product is returned with its original packaging and accessories where applicable.
- The product is not damaged due to misuse, accident, or unauthorized modification.
- The refund request satisfies the applicable return and refund conditions.

Some products may have additional restrictions according to their category or warranty conditions.

2. Refund for Cancelled Orders

If an order is successfully cancelled before it enters the shipping process, the customer is eligible for a refund of the amount paid for the cancelled item.

If the order has not yet been shipped, cancellation may be processed directly.

If the order has already entered the shipping process, the customer may need to receive the product and submit a return request instead.

3. Item-Level Refunds

Refunds are processed per item.

If an order contains multiple items, cancelling or returning one item does not automatically cancel or refund the other items in the same order.

The refund amount for an eligible item is based on the amount paid for that item.

4. Refund Amount

For an eligible refund, the customer receives the amount paid for the returned or cancelled item.

Applicable shipping charges, discounts, or other charges may affect the final refund amount according to the order details.

5. Refund Processing

Once the cancellation or return is approved, the refund will be initiated through the original payment method whenever possible.

The customer will receive confirmation after the refund has been initiated.

The time required for the refund to appear in the customer's account may depend on the payment method and the payment provider.

6. Refund Status

If a refund has already been initiated but the customer has not received the money, the customer should provide the order ID or refund ID so that the refund status can be checked.

A refund that is already being processed should not be initiated again.

7. Failed or Rejected Refunds

If a refund cannot be completed through the original payment method, the customer may be contacted to provide an alternative eligible payment method.

If a refund request is rejected, the customer will be informed of the reason.

8. Non-Refundable Situations

A refund may be rejected when:

- The refund period has expired.
- The product is damaged because of customer misuse.
- The product has been modified without authorization.
- The returned product does not match the purchased product.
- The request does not satisfy the applicable refund conditions.

9. Refund for Partial Orders

When only some items from an order are eligible for refund, only those eligible items will be refunded.

For example, if an order contains three items and only one item is returned and approved, the refund will apply only to that item.

10. Contact Support

If you need help with a refund, provide your order ID and, when available, the item ID or refund ID.

Our support team can check the refund eligibility and current refund status.
